However, at night, bruxism / tightening is more severe, especially if one is under stress. The secondary occlusal trauma occurs when the teeth experience normal or excessive occlusal forces and teeth are already committed by periodontitis. Occlusal adjustment of both dentitions. This treatment can involve the mechanical readjustment of the height of an affected tooth; For example, if a cavity has been recently restored but the height of the restoration was not sculpted enough, a return visit to the dentist for the modification of the restoration can restore the bite to its healthy and functional state. If you have any questions about occlusal treatment, please ask your periodontist. The designer of this system allows the lower teeth to rest evenly on the system and prevent it from being grinding on the front teeth. This may involve bruxism, which is the tightening or grinding of the teeth, or it can involve other common functions such as chewing the nibs or pencils. Dental treatments, diseases and traumas can cause changes in the mordites of the teeth, altering the occlusion. Located occlusal trauma2. The occlusion occurs well dynamically, when the teeth approach between me during eating or talking, and estically, when the mandulum is at rest. This evaluation will determine if the treatment of the occlusion is necessary. Primary occlusal trauma This type of bite trauma is observed in an individual without Enamel's disease. Occlusal adjustment of both dentitions This treatment involves a global adjustment of the bite. There are two types of occlusal trauma: 1. The treatment of primary occlusal trauma must first involve the elimination of the cause. Bite trauma can contribute to a greater loss of support and bone around the teeth. In addition, this procedure can be performed without being numb. However, it has been shown in the presence of illness, bite trauma may contribute to a greater loss of support for teeth. Occlusal Trauma and Periodontal Disease In the past and even today in Africa, some dentists believe that occlusal trauma causes enCAs disease.Although it has been shown through several scientific studies that bite trauma does not cause enCAs disease, it is still claimed today by some general dentists as a cause of enCAs disease. If the excess strength is due to a limited number of teeth compensating for the lack, therefore doing the work of several teeth, a tooth bridge or other restoration 3 may be recommended to help rebalance the distribution 3 the force more evenly. Clenching or bruxism (grinding) 3. These include hemorrhage, necrosis, resorption 3 one 3, loss and tear of cement, and widening of the periodontal ligament. Also evaluated is wear on the surfaces of the teeth, mobility of the teeth, the masks used to chew and the joints (TMJ) of the lower mandAbula. Symptoms associated with this condition 3 include muscle pain, enlarged muscles of the cheeks, feeling tired 3 the hands from the ear, occipital headaches (behind the head), neck pain, mobility, pain in front of the ears, buzzing in the ears, limited opening, and wear facets in the front and canine teeth, unless it is brought to your attention' n. The first step in the treatment of the bite (occlusion' is to perform an occlusal 3. In many cases, with these periodontically uninvolved teeth, the elimination 3 the cause will eliminate any tooth mobility. Occlusal trauma is a day that falls on teeth, usually due to excessive force, and causes them to align incorrectly. When the cause of primary occlusal trauma is For non-functional patients, treatment may involve training patients to eliminate those harmful habits. During the day, this habit usually occurs when one concentrates on a particular situation for a period 3 time or for a period of time .1 .1 .evlovni dluc siht .eussit latnodoirep dna enob fo ssol yllausU si hcihw ,ytilibom eht fo esuac eht gniganam osla elihw ytilibom egruocsid ot hteet eht gnitnlps edulcni yam siht .amuart lasulcco erutuf tveverp profereht yam dna hteet eht stropus taht enob eht erotser dna etarogivni yeht sa ,elbareferp eb yam snoitrotser detroppus-tnalpmi ,elbissop nehW .snoitarotser detroppus-tnalpmi ro secived citehtsorp elbavomer edulcni yam snoitrotser latneD .amuart lasulcco ot eud rucro osla yam taht serutaef cipocorcin ynam era ereht .smotpmys tnedive no desab desongaid eb yam amuart lasulcco elihW .devomer eruturts htoot fo tnuoma laminim eht ecalper ot dedeen eb lliw snworc ro sgnillif on .stnemtnioppa lareves ekat dluc hcihw ,erudecorp siht gniwolloF .decalp eb neht nac snoitrotser latned dna ,serusaem lacigrus htiw detaert eb tsum ytilibom fo sesuac esehT .hteet eht dnuora ssol tropus dna ssol enob htiw esaesid mug sah laudividi na nehW nees si amuart etib fo ephyt siht a ~ muarT lasulccoO yradnoceS .amuart lasulcco yradnoceS ro yramirp rehtie sa noitazirogetac edulcni tnearta dna sisongaID .esaesid latnodoirep fo ecnesba eht yb deziretcarahc osla si amuart lasulcco yramirP .dednemmoceer siA Adraug thgin ro tnlps etib a ,gnihneC/msixurb siht fo tnearta ni .hteet ,mottob ro ,ralubidnam dna .pot ro ,yrallixam eht neewteb tcaenoc rof mret latned eht si noisulcco .tsrif nekatrednu si tneartaert tnlps etib sselnu hteet hnecl ro dniry ohw slaudividi no demrofrep eb ton dluohs tneartaert siht .revewoH .srucco siht semit eht gnitmil fo Lortnoc Emos Evah Lliw Yeht, Yad Eht Gnrud Tibah Siht Fo Erawa Si ENO FI a ,gnivird SA HCUS SEMIT

When using a locking plate/screw system, the plate does not have to be precisely adapted to the bone. When tightening a locking head screw, the screw will not cause a primary loss of reduction as it tightens into the threaded plate hole and will not draw the bone fragments to the plate. Bruxism is excessive teeth grinding or jaw clenching. It is an oral parafunctional activity; i.e., it is unrelated to normal function such as eating or talking. Bruxism is a common behavior; reports of prevalence range from 8% to 31% in the general population. Several symptoms are commonly associated with bruxism, including hypersensitive teeth, aching jaw muscles, headaches, tooth ...
