Chapter 5 Relationships in Triangles
 5.1 - Bisectors of Triangles

- Learn to distinguish among altitudes, angle bisectors, perpendicular bisectors, medians, midsegments in triangles and use their properties to solve problems.
- Learn to construct perpendicular and angle bisectors of triangles.
- Learn to distinguish among the centroid, orthocenter, incenter, and circumcenter in a triangle and use the properties of each to solve problems.
- Learn to prove points on a perpendicular bisector of a line segment are exactly equidistant from the segment's endpoints.

Perpendicular Bisector - A segment that goes from either the vertex or a side of a triangle and hits one side of the triangle. The side that it hits, it cuts in half (bisects) and is perpendicular to.
Perpendicular Bisector Theorem - If a point is on the perpendicular bisector of a segment, then it is equidistant from the endpoints of the segment. Example: If line segment CD is a perpendicular bisector of line segment AB, then AC = BC.

1. Find each measure.

a. b. XY c. PQ

Angle Bisector - A line that goes from the vertex of a triangle to the opposite side and splits the angle of the vertex in half.
Angle Bisector Theorem - If a point is on the bisector of an angle, then it is equidistant from the sides of the angle.
 Example: If ray BE bisects angle DBE, line segment FD is perpendicular to ray BD and line segment FE is perpendicular to ray BE, then DF = FE.

2. Find each measure.

a. b. c. OS
